

LBJ LIBRARY ORAL HISTORY COLLECTION

The LBJ Library Oral History Collection is composed of interviews conducted for the LBJ Library under four separate projects: those done under the auspices of the National Archives; the White House during the Johnson Administration; the University of Texas Oral History Project; and the LBJ Library Oral History Project. The names of interviewees who have participated in more than one of these projects are repeated on this list to highlight this fact. Names of those with multiple interviews done by the same project are repeated when terms of access to their various interviews vary. Otherwise, the name of an interviewee is listed once even though he or she may have given more than one interview.

Interviews which have been completed and accessioned into the Library's collection are followed by an alphabetical symbol in parentheses describing their status and terms of access. Those interviews without a symbol are in various stages of processing and therefore are not yet available for research unless specifically authorized by the interviewee.

Please note that special oral history interviews in the Library's custody are not included on this list. These special interviews include those recorded by researchers, by federal departments preparing administrative histories, and interviews conducted by other oral history projects.

Symbol Key:

A - available for research

A/CR - available for research; retains copyright privileges*

A/R - available for research although all or part of transcript is restricted*

A/R/T - tape recording is restricted*

A/R/ILL - Inter-Library Loan prohibited; reading room access only*

R - restricted for lifetime or until specified date*

R/WP - restricted, but can be made available if researcher obtains written permission from interviewee*; see archivist in Reading Room for permission forms

* See individual deed for specific terms of access and time restrictions

 Some of the oral history transcripts contain inaccuracies and typographical errors. Researchers who intend to rely on an excerpt or quotation from an interview are urged to verify the passage on the tape recording, when available.
