| | 11:45 am | EST | | | The President came down the elevator in the Mansion -- w/ Mrs. Johnson and greeted Miss Kathryn (Stevie-nickname) Westmoreland - daughter of General Westmoreland - commander of the USA Forces in Vietnam. Liz Carpenter had escorted her to the mansion and the President shook hands w/ her as she exclaimed about the excitement of the trip and being abelt o join her father and mother in Honolulu. She said that it was the biggest surprise that she could imagine... and how very appreciative she was to be afforded thi s opportunity. | |
| | | | | | Rus K. McNamara, Harriman, et al All of the dignitaries w/ the President went ahead of him -- and the President emerged from the Mansion w/ Mrs. Johnson -- kissed her goodbye... and boarded the helicopter on the South Grounds. | |
| | 11:56 am | | | | Departed the South Grounds via helicopter w/ Secy. of State Dean Rusk, Secy. of Defense Robert McNamara, Hon. Averell Harriman, The Vietnamese Ambassador Vu Van Thai, Hon. Bill Moyers, Hon. Jack Valenti, Miss Kathryn Westmoreland, Hon. Marvin Watson, VM | |
| | 12:05 pm | | | | Arrived at Andrews AFB -- and walked from the helicopter to AF-1. 26,000... The President posed at the bottom of the steps to the plane w/ Rusk, McNamara, Harriman and the Vietnamese Ambassador, and then walked up the steps -- stopping again at the top for photographers to again take a picture.... Miss Westmoreland (a student at National Cathedral School for Girls in Washington) joined the President (as did VM) and the President had them stop and turn around to the cameras. Then with a jaunty and confident wave of his hand, the President and his party entered the plane. (Also standing on the steps for the second shot of pictures were Bill Moyers, Jack Valenti, and Marvin Watson.) | |

| | | | | | The President for some time in the stateroom w/ only Rusk, McNamara, Harriman, and the Vietnamese Ambassador... | |
| | 1:30 | | | | The President to the main passenger compartment where he greeted everyone in that section of the aircraft... then asked General Taylor, General Wheeler, Senator Fong, Senator Inouye, Cong. Matsunaga, , General Goodpaster, to join him in the stateroom. | |
| | | | | | As the President was talking w/ Gen. Wheeler -- the General asked the President if he had met Gen. Westmoreland's daughter... and the President exclaimed that he certainly had, and in fact, had brought her w/ him to the plane . General Wheeler said that it was certainly a fine thing to do and that he knew how pleased the Westmoreland family would be. | |
| | | | | | (There had been quite a show of affection between Generals Taylor and Wheeler over the charming 17-year old young lady. They were like uncles to her and she hugged and kissed them and they talked of how excited she was to be going home to see her daddy. JV had commented to her in the helicopter to Miss Westmoreland that the President certainly did rely on her father a good deal and how much he respected and admired him also. Stevie said that it was a very nice thing to say and she thanked him, but "he's my daddy -- and that's all -- and sometimes I wish he didn't rely on him as much so that he could come home more often. I just love him very , very much. " It was interesting to see how the daughter of such a responsible official reacted to the importance of her father -- he was still just "daddy" and she was still just "his daughter"...It was very moving.) | |
| | | | | | The President gathered up his party and went w/ them to the stateroom for discussions -- and asked MF and VM if "they would mind too very much and if they would excuse him" ! | |

| | | | | | The purpose of this trip was for the President and his advisors to meet and have discussions w/ Prime Minister Ky of South Vietnam and to talk w/ General Westmoreland -- to exchange views on a first-hand basis with those that actually lived in Vietnam and w/ those that worked on The Vietnamese problem in Washington. | |
| | | | | | Washington has been very tense over whether or not this surprise meeting would mean a disescalation or an escalation of the war going on in Vietnam at this time. The President had expressed hope and concern in the last few days over this trip. After it had been formalized and announced, he commented that the trip would be an arduous one... that there was hope for some resolutions to be obtained -- for a better understanding on the part of the United State Government w/ that of the Vietnamese Government... He also expressed grave concern for the Prime Minister of Vietnam to be taking this trip -- to meet w/ him in Honolulu -- especially since he would be accompanied by his Chief of State. In the light of the frequent coups and overthrows of government in Vietnam... the President thought that this was to be an especially dangerous trip for the Vietnamese officials, and he would hate for anything to happen in Vietnam while the Prime Minister was meeting w/ him. He said that the only thing that we could do was to hope that something could be achieved from the meetings so that the trip for the United States officials and for the Vietnamese officials wouldn't have been in vain.... that we must nver give up hope and never quit praying for an end to the war. | |
| | | | | | Aboard the plane, the President was in a good mood. His countenance was rather serious... but he seemed as if some thing good would come of this trip. | |
| | | | | | While the President met in the stateroom w/ his advisors, JV, BM, and Amb. Hand, MW, and MF worked on the President's schedule for the next few days. | |
